bodied men to work on the water-works.

E. L. WOODWARD'S SON'S.

If you desire a hard-earned lot of Crockery, go to the DOLLAR STORE.

What is the matter with our Oxford

Correspondent? Taken up too much with Rail Road matters to drop us a line?

The boys can now take their sweethearts out to look at the Water-Works.

Dick Weaver will furnish buggies and horses.

John Hughes, of the excellent firm of Hughes & Christian, of Oxford, paid us a visit this week. He reports Oxford flourishing.

We were pleased to receive a call from

Dr. T. L. Robertson, late of Springfield, but now of Oxford. He has been a long and good paying subscriber to the Republican. We wish we had a thousand like him.

We were pleased to receive a call yesterday from Mr. A. L. Ormsby, Attorney at Law, now traveling in the interest of the law department of the great Southern Publishing house of John P. Morton

& Co., of Louisville, Ky.

Will Col. Farr permit us to return thanks for that dozen of fine cigars. They are the best we have found in the market. We recommend them to our friends who love a good cigar.

Will each one of our subscribers send us at least one cash subscriber this week.

Think of some neighbor who don't take it; but ought to. We want to largely increase our list before the Fall campaign opens.

Our readers will find reading matter on the fourth page as well as the other three pages of the Republican this week. We mention it because for some time that page has been occupied by advertisements and from this cause might not be examined.

If you would like to get the worth of your dollar, go to the DOLLAR STORE.

Gradsden is about to fall in with our suggestion to drop railroads and go in for home industries. They now talk of building an iron foundry. The people

Good Hats, Underwear and Cutlery of all kinds at the DOLLAR STORE.

Mr. Wm. Scott, a citizen of this county, living near Teague's Cross Roads, was kicked or pawed by his horse some days ago and killed instantly.

A crowd of Gypsies passed through here Monday. They had ambulances, good teams, and were fixed up pretty comfortably. As they are a tribe of people who go where they list, we know not whence they came nor whither they went.

Our people responded most generously to the call made last week on them to give one day's work to the Water-works trench. Some went out Wednesday in person and others who could not go themselves sent hands as substitutes—nearly every man in town responded in one way or the other.

Gen. Forney is going to run two fine freestone springs together and bring water from them. Together they will furnish an ample supply of water. He is having the work done most thoroughly and handsomely. A better superintendent of the work could not have been found had the Council hunted the State over.

WANTED—A man with a sharp stick to punch up some of our local correspondents, who have not favored us with a line for over a month. Come gentlemen throughout the State have done you and the REPUBLICAN the compliment to follow the example we have set in this matter of local correspondence. They must think it a good feature or they would not adopt it. We are anxious to continue it, and to make it as full as possible we invoke correspondence from all parts of the county.

We greatly regret to have to announce the death of J. G. J. Whitesides, Esq., one of the early settlers of this county.

For a long time he had been sick, and he suffered greatly with a very large car-cuncle on the back of his head until he was released from pain by death. Fearing instant death if he should lie down, he stood on his feet, supported by attendants, for a considerable time, and death found him in that position. He had many friends in the county who will sincerely mourn his loss.

The Selma Times of a late date contained eight columns and a half of tax sales. Other papers in the State contain as lengthy ones, while a majority contain from two to four columns. We point with pride to the very small number of tax sales that will be made in this county—only eleven. Besides this our present Democratic efficient Tax Collector has assessed and collected already over two thousand dollars in State and County taxes, that had not been assessed by the predecessor of the present worthy incumbent. If any county in the State can show any less than eleven tax delinquent we would like for it to trot them out.

Last year Calhoun was the first county that paid in full and promptly the last furnishing of State taxes assessed against it.

Our Municipal Election.

The municipal election last Saturday resulted in the almost unanimous election of Geo. T. Turnley for Intendant; Wm.

H. Dean, J. D. Privett, Ed. L. Woodward, R. P. Weaver and L. W. Grant for Councilors. A larger vote was polls than before in years. This we take as an evidence that the people of Jacksonville are now a unit on the waterworks question, and that they endorse fully the action of the "young council" in relation thereto.

At night, after the result became known, a number of our young progres-moved through the square and directly to the residence of Alderman Privett, one of the recently honored ones, and there met a most generous reception at the hands of the Alderman. After partaking freely of the good things spread before them, the procession moved off down Depot street and halted near Cart

Hill and Dave Turner who had engaged to do the laughing for that end of town.

That it was well done, everybody living within half a mile of the place can attest.

They first laughed against each other, but it soon became evident neither could gain an advantage in that way, and they laughed against time. On the last heat

Cart did not draw his breath for half an hour, by the watch. He "laughed and laughed" until the procession had moved out of ear-shot and until the train came in and all that night, and Sunday he was too much tickled to risk himself in church, and Wednesday, when he went out with the volunteers to work on the water-works, his friends noticed now and then a nervous twitching of the corners of his mouth, but it developed into nothing broader. It is supposed that there was a laugh there, but this is mere speculation. I am too much troubled with a pain in his side to be about yet.

Returning by way of Alderman Woodward's, that dignitary was loudly called upon for a speech. In vain he protested that he was not a "speecher"—that he never had made but one speech in his life and that was to the female who now presides at his cottage home—that the call was sudden—unexpected—that his English had retired to quarters in the dictionary for the night—that he had not thought over what he should say—that if he had he would have said—what he did not say in his then confused state of mind; but a speech the crowd had come for and a speech they were determined to have, and their calls became so loud and peremptory that the Alderman at last, in sheer desperation, mounted his gatepost, pitched off and gave them a real neat, lively, sparkling one, brim full and running over with enthusiastic predications of the happy destiny in store for our beautiful town. He surprised himself.

With a roasting cheer, the boys moved on until they came to the residence of Capt. James Crook, our Representative, the gentleman to whom we are indebted for the prompt passage of the waterworks bill. Of course he was called out, and he responded at some length in an earnest, eloquent speech that would have done credit to a greater occasion and a larger audience. He, too, was sanguine of the future of Jacksonville under the inspiration of the public spirit that has seized her people, one and all, and that is rapidly making her one of the most convenient and desirable places of residence in the State.

Alderman Weaver was the next man to hear from after Capt. Crook, but that penitent youth was silent to all the entertainments of his elected callers. He agreed with them that the Water Works was a great undertaking—that "we have gained a victory—a glorious victory"— that as we move along, we will "stamp improvement on the wings of time" &c.

&c., but in all that he could see no particular reason why he should make a speech. They gave him up as a bad customer.

Returning to the square, the crowd drove around to his place of business to thank Alderman Dean and hear what that usually reticent gentleman had to say of the situation. The door was closed.

The game had fled! No, a window opened! A voice roared like that of

LADIGA LOCALS.

Business dull, cotton nearly all sold in this vicinity, and the farmers are as busy preparing for another crop as the weather will admit.

Mr. Barnard, from Cherokee county, has commenced a school at this place.

We hope to find him the right man for the place; he wears the right kind of a face, and is a genuine old Rob dyed in the wool.

Len, we hear it whispered around, up this way that some person or persons in Jacksonville should have said the fifty-five bales of cotton that J. R. Graham bought in one day was all that was made in this vicinity, and that he bought all in one day. Those fifty-five bales were only a portion made on Mr. Craven Wilson & son's farms. I supposed it to be some man who has never been to Ladiga, that circulated the rumor. I am satisfied it was not Ball Play Local from the fact that he went into winter quarters very early and died out the first cold spell that came and as for my friend Superannuated it was not him for he has been foraging for some time; let them be who they may, they are invited to come up and see the books and proceeds of sales and shipments from this place.

Repairing the Damage—The Burnt District of Wisconsin.

The reconstruction of the burned village in Wisconsin is proceeding with an energy which is characteristic of the adventurous pioneers of that region, and which exceeds even the marvelous enterprise by which Chicago is rising from its ashes. The village of Peshtigo, which will be famous in all time in the records of devastations, is already rebuilt and re-occupied, although four months only have expired since it was totally destroyed. With timely aid, in which their benefactors have this occasion to congratulate themselves, unquenched courage and almost marvelous activity, the people have surmounted obstacles which seemed insuperable and overcome difficulties which might have discouraged the stoutest hearts. It will afford some idea of the terrible extent of the recent conflagration in those lumber districts to state that for long distances the streams, in some instances, deep and more than a hundred feet wide, were so impregnated with lye from the ashes of the burnt woods, that the water could not be used for drinking or cooking purposes, and for miles and miles the whole country exhibits scarcely a mark of vegetable life, so completely did the "devouring element" verify its title.

A Massachusetts woman, lately deceased, before her death, in order to keep her memory green in the mind of her husband, wrote a number of letters which she post-dated and confided them on her death-bed to a friend, with directions to post one to him on the last day of every month. In the spring-time of his mourning the husband was rather glad to receive these pseudo communications from the spirit world, but when time had cooled the heart-burnings of his grief and another woman presided at his table the postman's arrival with a posthumous letter at the end of each lunar revolution became very malapropos and quite destroyed, with its diurnal memories, the pleasures of his new honeymoon. His freshly-chosen bride, too, became jealous of these mysterious missives, and threatened to tear out the eyes of their author, but on being told who with burning the epistolary production of her predecessors as often as they came.

It is rumored that the Emperor of Germany is not satisfied with the conduct of affairs in France, and threatens the re-occupation of that country. This movement is based upon the principle that Prussia reserves to herself the right to judge of and pronounce on any new government which may succeed that of President Thiers in France on the following important point: Whether the Emperor William's Ministry deem that government unlikely, by inclination or incapacity, to execute the treaty of peace, and to discharge the obligations incurred under it to Germany. Should Prussia decide either point in the affirmative against France, a new German invasion of the French territory will follow.

PHILADELPHIA WATER-WORKS.—Philadelphia is old foggy in some respects, but in the matter of her water works old foginess returns a handsome profit. The report of the Chief Engineer for the last year shows a surplus over expenses of half a million dollars. Last year the city laid down over thirty miles of pipe, constructed a four-acre reservoir, built a new engine-house, made a saving of $26,000 by doing its own repairing in its own shops, and pumped 13,498,899,481 gallons of water. The cost of maintaining the works last year was nearly $446,000.

James Parton, in a recent lecture, said he remembered when he was young and innocent—a long time ago—he was a paragraphist on a weekly paper in New York. In recording the happenings of the world, he conceived that it would be a good idea to start a new department, to be devoted exclusively to virtue. He attempted to get a column of good deeds, but in all the world, the first week, he could find but four brief paragraphs. The second week he could find absolutely nothing—not a good deed in a whole week.—The department died in its second week.

The National Standard—while on the anti-slavery organ par excellence—advocates a grand crusade in favor of temperance by making it, like anti-slavery, a national movement, with a common purpose—the utter extirpation of the traffic in all intoxicating liquors to be used as a beverage—to be kept steadily in view as the objective point ultimately to be gained.

The Legislature of Wisconsin has enacted a law, making all days of election legal holidays. It is thought this measure will induce business men to take a more general interest in politics, or at least record their votes, and thus act as a preventive of the tendency to caucus.

The little discrepancy of some three or four millions of dollars between the amount paid our government by France for arms, and the amount received into the Treasury on that account, excites attention; but administration papers say it is a trifle.

Every day an increase in

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the Sarsaparillian Resolvent, and commencing with the Blood, Sweat, Urine, and other fluids, and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new material, and restores the system to its normal state.

It cures the most distressing cases of Constipation, Glandular Disease, Ulcers in the throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodules in the Glands and other parts of the system. Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting this process, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the Sarsaparillian will and does secure—a cure is certain; for when once this remedy commences its work of purification, and succeeds in diminishing the loss of it, the repairs will be rapid, and every day the patient will feel himself growing better and stronger, the food digesting better, appetite improving, and weight increasing.

Not only does the Sarsaparillian Resolvent excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Serofulous, Constitutional, and Skin diseases; but it is the only positive cure for Kidney and Bladder Complaints, Urinary, and Wound diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are bricks, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or threads like white silk, there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and white clay deposit, or the water is thick, cloudy, or has a strong offensive odor when passed, and pain in the Small of the Back and along the Loins.

Messrs. J. & S. BONES, Dear Sir:

I have given the 16 inch Mill (Clemons) bought of you, a thorough test, and can express myself perfectly satisfied. The power was the running gear to my mill which although in very bad order, was sufficient to grind one bushel (by the watch) in eleven minutes. I find no trouble to do my grinding before breakfast. Several of my neighbors were present at the time, and all were satisfied with the result, and were astonished at the quantity and fine quality of the meal produced in so short a time. I prefer the meal to any steam mill meal. The 16 inch mill I bought of you for the Foster Farm and used since the above was written proves equally satisfactory. It is a complete mill.

FARMERS are interested in knowing that Col. L. J. Parr, in now prepared to furnish corn, for cash, by the ear load or 100 sacks.

Messrs. Green & Ledbetter give notice that they are now ready to deliver corn at the depot in Jacksonville. Let those interested take notice.

Fine lot of new style Japanese suited cloth, for Spring dresses, just received by J. Rosenberg.

The store house and stock of goods of J. D. Stocks, at Griffin Station on the S. R. & D. Railroad, was burned Tuesday night, between twelve and one o'clock—loss about $4,500. Insurance $3,000. We understand. The general impression is that it was set on fire.

Fine lot of Prints and Ginghams for Spring, just received and for sale cheap by J. Rosenberg.

R. L. Woodward, Jr., will give you five pounds of good chewing tobacco for $1.00, 14 pounds good smoking tobacco for $1.00.

We invite attention to the card of Dr. W. W. Harrison, of Alexandria. He is spoken of by those who know him as a most estimable gentleman and excellent physician.

Just received on consignment several carloads of nice Timothy Hay. Apply to C. G. Samuel, Route, Ga.

Ed. L. Woodward has just received a fine lot of the largest and finest White Fish and Mackerel ever brought to this market.

Some have thought from the immense sacrifices Jacob Rosenberg has been making, and still is making in the sale of his stock of Dry Goods, that it was his intention to close out entirely, preparatory to a removal from Jacksonville. Such we have the pleasure to announce is not the case. He will still remain at Jacksonville, and this Summer exhibit a larger and more attractive stock than ever before.

ALEXANDRIA LOCALS.

More Railroad Trouble—Tuesday evening we saw a number of negroes, mules and carts pass through our town on their way to Oxford, to commence work on the East Alabama and Cincinnati Railroad. We understand that Col. C. G. Gadsden, the energetic, go ahead contractor from Oxford to Gadsden, has presented a good force with which to commence work, and he intends to push it through. Let us have the railroad. We can do without the Water Works at present, as it is but a short distance from the outside limits of our town to the spring and we have no "Court House" at either end of which to place a fountain, and have the sparkling spring in sunbeams playing our "vipers."

"SHARP SHOT"—We notice Mr. Editor that you have threatened some of your local correspondents, and since we failed to come up to time last week, we of course must bear our part of this "hounding," but now how do you expect us to write letters, when our people won't say nor act locally. They won't fight of Saturday's, they won't die, they won't get sick and recover that we may say how thankful we are, and there won't any body give us a "dozen cigars" so we can furnish you a personal notice of what is to be done.

Well here it is, pay us a pretty good price, and we will do like the man swearing in Court, or the negro "Woman in the Legislature." We'll send you anything you want.

A few days ago we were passing by the plantation of Capt. Floyd Bush, on Cane Creek, and as we neared the Captain's residence, we saw him telling on the lines of his clover field, "I'll tell you he was mad—he was good mad. With some reminiscence we enquired why he was so out of humor. We were surprised Mr. Editor, for it is not a common thing with the Captain; he replied that the East Alabama and Cincinnati Railroad was going to run through his clover field, and he could not stop the thing. We think Capt. B. ought to be willing to surrender the clover patch, for the Railroad will be a two-fold advantage to him, it will build up the town at which he trades, it will place a depot near him, so he can ship his leather. Captain, "Let us have peace."

Lon, did you read that Cotton tale, under the head of Eastaboga locals in the Talladega Mountain Home of recent date? Wasn't that home? Certainly the local of that city has something to back him, or he would not talk so large.

SUCCESSOR.

OXFORD LOCALS.

DEAR LON.—your are mistaken when you think that I am too much engaged in Railroad matters, to have time to write. The excitement about the Railroad has for the most part subsided, as it is now a fixed fact that we are to have the benefit of the crossing of the East Alabama and Cincinnati road at this point. They (the Engineers and Contractors) are here and will go to work grading to-day, (Wednesday) within the corporate limits of Oxford. They have quite a number of carts, mules and hands; and they say they expect to have the road finished from here to Gadsden, and in running order in 12 months.

My reasons for not writing last week, were, because I was too busy engaged in finishing up my new building, and fixing up generally; and more especially and particularly engaged in getting my garden under fence; and I am quite sure if you were to see it you would wonder that it did not take longer to accomplish such an undertaking. But for fear of trespassing on your time too much I would give you a description of it, but my space in your columns will not permit. The patent is applied for.

Don't forget that NORTH, MOTES & CO., keep constantly on hand a large lot of FAMILY GROCERIES.

The probabilities are that the company owning those beds of iron ore near this place, will commence operation here again this Spring. You remember before the war, they had very extensive works at this place, which were burned during the war by the Federals. With the facilities which they will soon have for supplying their manufactured material, and the abundance of this ore, and its superior quality, and its close proximity to inexhaustible beds of very superior coal, which they will most assuredly have access to by the Georgia Western road, ere long, there is certainly very strong inducements offered to capitalists to take hold of it and operate extensively, as they can do so as profitably as at any other point on the Continent of America. We do not except Pennsylvania even. Their best beds of ore, sink into insignificance in richness and extent when compared to these, so said by those who profess to know, and who are interested in these in Pennsylvania. Then if those will yield a handsome profit—no one doubts they do—then why not these yield a better profit? We think they will, and before another twelve months shall have rolled around we expect to see extensive machinery fitted up, ready for manufacturing this raw material right at home.

Well Lon, we are to have another weekly newspaper here. Now you know that Oxford is rising—going up—yonder. The Messrs. Messly are to be proprietors we believe. Mr. Oliver of the Gadsden Times (!) takes charge of the Editorial department we believe. Success to them, may their "Star" never go down again, but shine brighter and brighter.

If you want the very best article of Western flour cheap, call on NORTH, MOTES & CO., when you come to Oxford.

The prospect for a good crop of wheat through this section, so far as we have seen, is very flattering; though it is very small at this time, and in some places the cold weather has killed out some of it; but we think there is still enough left to make a fair crop, and there has been an unusually large amount sown.

Remember that NORTH, MOTES & CO., keep constantly on hand a large lot of furniture which they sell cheap.

Improvement is still going on in every direction, and we hope to see more improvements this year than in any two years previous to this. We feel assured that when we say this it does not tell more than half of what it will be reasonable to expect under the existing circumstances, if it were not for the stringency in money matters.

And now we must bid you good-bye to our local; inasmuch as we are to have a paper in our midst, we give with pleasure all the local matter to them. In taking our leave of you we do so with feelings of regret. Our journey with you though short, has been a very pleasant one indeed, and we have but one thing to regret, and that is that we were not able to furnish you more material, and that which was more interesting. Once more we wipe the tears from our eyes, and bid you farewell. Long life and prosperity to you. BRICK.

LATER—The work of grading commenced this evening in the corporate limits of Oxford, and will go right ahead to completion from here to Gadsden. They received a new lot of hands this evening.

PINEY WOODS LOCALS.

After having been in winter quarters now about three months, we thought it about time to crawl out and plant some corn, as we might need some "doggers" next Winter. We find everything looking well except cows and sheep.

We began gardening about the 20th of February, and now have peas knee high, if you know how long.

We have two nice little schools going on in our neighborhood—one male teacher and one of the other kind.

We will have preaching at our Church four times a month, provided dear old brother Warwick is able to preach once a week.

Our neighborhood intend to plant as much Cotton as they can cultivate, and send their children to school while public money holds out so well.

Our ladies are expecting to sell a great deal of butter this Summer, if the straw keeps old Mule alive until the grass comes in. They did intend to sell some few eggs before setting time; but as yet the hens seem very unconcerned.

DEAR LON, I close with the request that you see it that Mr. Hill don't die with the ticks. MISS JANE.

RABBIT TOWN LOCALS.

Turning over so beautifully. All the energetic tillers of the ground these fair and pretty days are "stirring stumps." Mules and horses move lively from daylight until dark, and then the farmers wait the days two or three hours longer. Some of my neighbors are talking of planting corn this week. Is it possible? Yes, I've heard several use such expressions as this. "I wanted to plant such and such field last week, but the weather was unfavorable and did not get quite ready, but this week I will plant that field sure, if the weather stays this way."

WHEAT is scarcely discoverable in the fields, very backward indeed; but still some of us are hopeful of a good crop of wheat yet, from the one fact that we have had such quantities of snow this Winter and Spring. Folks over here believe powerfully in signs.

LAST YEAR'S COTTON.—This article is all gone; likewise the greenhacks received for it. There may be one or two in this settlement who have not been so tight up for money and who are waiting to get the top of the Spring market.

JOANS, (as the negroes call it) is becoming very popular with the Choctaw Indians. They are determined to make a spoon or spoon a horn. Every man, to a man, has purchased more or less of it, and some are buying material and making we hear, (one man we know of—the Model Farmer) tons after Mr. Turner's receipt, and still there is a huge cry after Gunno. The manufacturers will make the spoon.

PERSONAL.—Mr. E. Manning has been back from Texas for some time. He speaks highly of that country.

TURKEY CATCHING.—Lon, we have neighbors over here (Wm. J. Whitesides and E. A. Hall) who are very successful in catching turkeys. They have caught and fringed on them until they have gone to gobbling. It will be dangerous for them to go out into the mountains, since little Dads and others too are bad gobbler hunters. Can't you see Capt. Crook and get him to have the Legislature convened for their especial benefit. A very limited turkey law would suffice. The mountain known by us all as Rock-house mountain would be territory enough.

Please tell Col. Parr, that if he has any more Irish potatoes grown by Robt. Grubbs, to save them for James Manning; or if he should get any more, to keep them and oblige.

Can't you send the cow doctors over to Rabbit Town. James Manning and B. O. Ramsey will pay for one year.

Montgomery Advertiser.

Editor REPUBLICAN.—That the Southern States have suffered grievous wrongs at the hands of the Government of the United States, since the surrender of the Army of Virginia, by the late General Lee, in 1865; and that the Government has violated her pledged faith in every conceivable manner to oppress the people of the South, is not a new topic. To participate in it is useless, for we all know and feel the unparallel oppression.

What remedy have we? And how is it to be obtained? The only remedy is to be sought and found at the ballot box.

In a few instances of late, success has crowned the united efforts of the Democratic and Conservative parties. In Alabama for instance, we have achieved a great success; have taken our regular uprising in the right direction; let us continue our united efforts in the same direction. And to that end let us discard, and refuse to give aid and comfort, politically, to such persons and papers, as persist in setting up, or attempting to set up, a party to divide our ranks; let us unite directly, or indirectly giving aid to our political adversaries. If they know better, they are unworthy, and if they do not know better, they are unworthy, and in neither case should they be followed.

North Carolina.

A correspondent from the State of N. C. writes to the New York World and gives a most painful account of the present condition of things in that once proud and opulent old State. The World says:

A correspondent writing to us on other matters gives incidentally a harrowing insight into the condition of affairs in North Carolina. He writes that the State, "has been in a state of upsurge and excitement during the last nine months. Hundreds have been arrested and bound over for trial before the United States Court at Raleigh next June. Many have already attended court there last September and December. Some poor men will have to sell their last cow for 300 miles from home, and many have fled from the country." It is revolting to think that while the daily closing in upon this State, there is no more to be said, these poor, conquered people. Were he unstained and unsuspected himself, but with what face can an almost ennobled and proven jailer justify the villainous terrorism of which our correspondent writes?

The Longest Speech ever Made in the World.

The opening argument of the Attorney General of England, Sir John D. Coleridge, who appears for the defence in the celebrated Dicksboro case, has proved perhaps the very longest speech ever heard of. It was begun on the 12th of January, and at our last account it had not been concluded. However, ten days after he began, neither Judge nor jury showed any wish to have the distinguished advocate stop speaking. Before proceeding on that day, he remarked that certain persons who were ignorant of the facts had criticised him for not restricting himself to a day and a half. But it was necessary, inasmuch as the jury were now to hear for the first time a connected account of the case from its outset, that he should still detain them. This, however, he would not do on a moment longer than was absolutely necessary. Both the Lord Chief Justice and the jury at once expressed the opinion that the Attorney General had not wasted a single moment since he began to speak.

Order of Sale in the Matter of the Alabama and Chattanooga Railroad.

In another column our readers will find the order of sale decreed by the Hon. Richard Bassett, Judge of the United States District Court in Bankruptcy. The liens and rights of the State are all fully protected, and, if these proceedings are not interrupted, our confident hope is that we are, more speedily than many have suspected, reaching a settlement of this most troublesome question.

An economical Iowa, who had a toothache, determined to remove his tooth in the Indian fashion. Accordingly he bent down a sapling in the woods, lay down himself, and attached a stout cord to his tooth and the sapling. Then he touched the spring, and the next he knew he had jumped over a grove of about forty small trees, and was trying to get out of a small pond that he happened to alight in.

In 1871 a man in Yates City, Illinois, named Alpaugh, was called on to give a day's road-labor. He refused, saying he had already paid his tax at Ipaava. Yates City is said for the tax and was beaten before the Justice. The City then appealed to the Circuit Court, where last week one Judge, five lawyers, and twelve jurymen were kept busy three days. Then the jury disagreed, so a new trial is to take place. Costs now amount to $4000, and the case will not stop short of the Supreme Court.

CONKING dresses in the flashiest manner, and walks with a gingerly step, as if his shoes pinched him. Summer's face is inclined to be puffy, and his well-dyed hair is very abundant. He wears a much-cultivated top-knot, which falls becomingly over his forehead. Schurz has the sallow complexion of a scholar and the energy of a patent-right man. Carpenter fills up the ideal of a good liver. In old times he would have spent his time in a bar-room. Trumbull looks more like an old-fashioned deacon than any thing else. Morton has the faculty of expressing as much with his eye as in his words. They have a peculiar fascinating effect which gives emphasis to his statements. Nye has as fine a head as there is in the Senate. It is well shaped and large, and his face is very intellectual, which proves that the face is not always an index of character.

Ind. Eve. Journal.

S. J. BRESTON, an eccentric gentleman of Hartford, regularly stamps all letters held for postage in that city, attaching to the envelope a printed statement of the fact. The responses he has received would fill a large volume. A resident of E. Elizabeth, New Jersey, writes that Marcus L. Ward, became Governor of that State through that course. A Boston burglar says: "Better, you're a gentleman; I am—no matter what; but I got a letter you stamped just in time to dodge the beaks and be off. Here is a stamp, and if I ever happen in Hartford in a professional way, I shall crack your bin if I know my self."

Mr. STONY, of the Chicago Times, says that his paper has made more money in three months since the fire than in any one year previous. He expects to cover his losses in two years, and have a better building than he lost.

A FACETIOUS individual, not many miles from Danbury, sought to "draw his wife out" by pretending to be found dead with an empty laudanum vial by his side. And that lady was a good deal shocked at first, but having read that a needle introduced into the human flesh would indicate on its surface whether that flesh was dead, and being a woman of eminent practical ability, she at once armed herself with a polished instrument of needle two inches growth, and, with throbbing heart and bated breath, introduced a good share of its length into the deceased. What the surface of the needle really indicated was not learned, as he took it with him as he passed through the sash.—Ex.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 9.—The Unionville Times reports that arrests for Ku-Kluxism were commenced in Union county last week, by Deputy U. S. Marshal Williams, and that much excitement exists throughout the country where complete harmony and quiet had prevailed for many months. Impatiently the patient turned on her the same time awakened in him that great joy, which a noble man feels, when he finds that he has not been deceived in his fellow-man, though all appearances have been against him,—whether or not such a discovery heightens his own sorrow. Eberhard knew that he could place the fullest confidence in the honorable confession of the artist, and the few words with which he replied to the artist's letter, did honor to the writer as well as the recipient.

As both felt themselves not entirely free from fault and both acknowledged in past wrong — so they stretched forth to each other the brotherly hand in mutual forgiveness. It was at the same time, and both felt that deeply, a farewell for life.

That beloved being, who had cost them both their life's happiness, stood between them; on earth there was for them no meeting again.

Slowly Amata recovered. They had long concealed from her, her brother's death fearing a relapse. But when at the news with strange composure;—she could only exclaim, him to marry!—he was at rest—and in her heart she asked: "Oh, why was it not I instead of him?" But the meeting with her father deeply moved her and her tears flowed profusely when he told her of the last days of her beloved brother and delivered to her his last messages for her.

Since that fatal night no words had passed between Amata and her husband in reference to what had then taken place of which, nevertheless both their hearts were full.

ble—and then—what had they to say to each other? She had learned through Frau Wedel of Volkmar's departure. She had listened in silence to that excellent lady's lively expressions of regret and had borne her searching glances as the criminal on the scaffold bears the gazes of the gaping crowd—that death-wound in his heart, she ~~was~~ no longer moved by ^{her} potty curiosity.

In the mean time Summer was come, Awata appeared not to recover above a her she ought to be allowed to do him so little credit—he had expected something quite different of her.

At home, however, he shook his head gravely and said one day to his wife with clouded brow, "I am worried about little Frau Gregorin's, I confess openly to you. Alas! it is a case where physicians' art is of no avail. The disease has taken its normal course, and is, to all appearances, vanquished, but the strength remains wanting—and I can do nothing!"

"We humans are only the tools of a higher hand Harold, you are accustomed to say. And what have you yourself written long ago as a household motto and blessing in our family? 'I am the Lord, thy physician!'"

Is not that also the same with your patients?"

"The Counselor's countenance bright-

"That is impossible—just now, my dearest, it is a simple impossibility. Of course I too have thought of it, but Gregorius cannot possibly leave before the

But could not his wife go now and he follow her later, asked the Counselor's wife.

This also has been proposed, but it will not do, answered Born. She is yet too weak, but chiefly too young and inexperienced to take care of herself. Her til Eberhard could travel has been thwarted because just to-day, quite unexpectedly, a purchaser for her father's estate has been found, with whom Herr von Kailhen has already come to terms, and Herr von Kailhen will soon return to Italy. The old faithful Martha has her hands full—that person is worth her weight in gold Adèle, and I long for the time when she can again be with my patient.

was quite shocked at his altered appearance when I lately met him on the street, he seemed so miserable that he could scarcely answer my question concerning his wife. I cannot forget the sorrowful expression of his countenance.

So every one, who meets him, remarks, said Born, "the colleagues all speak of his altered appearance, and Weinmann said yesterday that he looked like one who had a horrible secret on his conscience weighing heavily on him."

"You were not violent, Harold? said his wife hesitatingly.

"12—take care!—why should you think that? asked the Counselor with an expression of vexed innocence, of course I only allowed myself a little, read in a different manner if the Counselor so pleased,—but to return to our friends: I would give something Adele to find out where the shoe pinches, on both man and wife. But I will wager my head that something is wrong, as often as I go thore the English proverb comes into my mind. "There is a skeleton in every house," but what it is the devil only knows!
